Mrs. Mildred Lyons, Welcome Wagon hostess, and her guests at reception to six brides-elect and their mothers at which various merchants distributed numerous gifts.

Six Engaged Girls Receive Gifts From Welcome Wagon Sponsors Here

Six brides-elect and their mothers were guests at a reception given by Mrs. Mildred Lyons, Welcome Wagon hostess, in Guy Lombardo's East Point House. They were welcomed by William A. Frey, manager of the restaurant, and received gifts from each of the sponsors. Mr. and Mrs. William Blume, Jr., were also guests at the reception.

The purpose of the event was to assist the girls in making plans for their marriages, and all expressed appreciation over the co-operation offered by the various sponsors in assisting in every way possible.

The engaged girls were Miss Doris Angelo, daughter of Mrs. Charles McAlly, 5 Thelma ct., fiancée of Ernest Dolphy, 143 Wallace st.; Miss Helen Donnelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donnelly, 14 East Woodbine dr., whose fiancé is Peter Angelo, 5 Thelma ct.; Miss Margaret Ann McGinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McGinn, 326 Wallace st., who is to be married to Edward O. Holle, Jr., 51 Sportsmans ave.; Miss Elaine Ruth Polson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Polson, 46 North Bergen pl., who is to be the bride of Warren Harold Shiber, 38 Hawkins ave., Baldwin; Miss Ann Sonneborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sonneborn, 98 Rose st., whose husband-to-be is Walter S. Covington, Jr., a sergeant in the Army Air Force stationed in Japan, and Miss Rosemary Neubert, daughter of Mrs. Susan Neubert, 141 Hanson pl., Roosevelt, engaged to Joseph Seery, 32 Anderson ave., Roosevelt.

The Baldwin Garden Center supplied a floral centerpiece for the table, a corsage for each of the girls and an orchid for Mrs. Lyons. Mrs. Sonneborn later won the center piece in a drawing.

Mark's Bakery, also of Baldwin, provided a large cake ornamented with figures of a bride and groom and later will give wedding ornaments to the couples as they are married.

Lombardo's served biscuit-tortoni and coffee, and Mr. Frey invited the girls to come to him for advice when making plans for their receptions. Chester A. Fulton & Son presented budget folders to the girls, and George Stanley had books, "The

Veterans' Deadlines Listed by Pellicio

Tells V.F.W. Members of Benefits that may be Lost by Delayed Action

Commander Dominic Pellicio issued a warning to members of Henry Theodore Mohr Post, V.F.W., at its meeting that deadlines are approaching on certain benefits to which veterans are entitled.

Veterans discharged from service before July 25, 1947, and who have not yet taken advantage of their entitlement to education and training benefits under the G.I. Bill were reminded by Commander Pellicio that they have only a little more than a year and a half in which to apply for these benefits. Courses must be completed by July 25, 1950.

Disabled veterans entitled to automobiles under amended provisions of law, must apply before June 30, 1950. "This means," said Commander Pellicio, "that only about six months remain in which to apply for the cars."

Veterans who have held off buying homes because of high prices or for other reasons, cannot get a G.I. loan guarantee after July 25, 1947. This deadline applies to veterans discharged before July 25, 1947. Others discharged since that date have ten years after the date of discharge to take advantage of the home loan provisions of the G.I. Bill.

The Commander invited any interested veteran to consult Charles Chatalain, service officer of the Post, for further information as to his rights and privileges.

Adelphi Playwrights To Produce 'Tinder Box'

An original play, the first to be given by the Adelphi College Playwrights Educational Theatre this season, will be presented in the Little Theatre on the college campus in Garden City, at 8:40 P.M. February 9, 10 and 11. The play, "Tinder Box," is the work of Jack Barfield, best known for his work in radio, where he has been associated with the National Broadcasting Co. for years, as script manager. "Tinder Box" is an eighteenth century piece, the entire action of which takes place in a country house in the South Carolina lowlands near Charleston, during the afternoon and evening of a day late in May, 1865.

Mr. Barfield said the campaign would divide into two phases. The first phase of public relations and special gifts is already under way and will last until the intensive drive phase begins.

The intensive drive phase will last to approximately a month and will be opened with special events on Columbus Day, Oct. 12.

A display of spring millinery featured the mid-winter meeting of the Wellesley-in-Nassau Club in the home of Mrs. Albert Pretzfelder in Garden City. A short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. John J. Stephens of Mineola.

Freeport Community Concert Ass'n To Sponsor Program by Singing Group

The Trapp Family Singers will give the second of the series of four concerts planned by the Freeport Community Concert Association next Wednesday night in the high school auditorium.

This is the tenth anniversary tour of this extraordinary ensemble of singers and musicians. Presenting their programs of classic art songs, appealing folk songs and rare church music, the Trapps have been responsible for the revival and popularity of such old instruments as the recorder and the blockflute on which they will perform here.

The Rev. Franz Wagner, who was chaplain to the Trapp family in their old home in their old home in the Austrian Tyrol before the war, is now the director of this ensemble. All of the Trapps are now American citizens, the girls by naturalization last winter, and the boys by virtue of their service in the United States Army.

For their program here, the Trapps will appear in the colorful native costumes of the Tyrol, the girls and their mother in floor-length dirndls with vari-colored aprons and shawls and billowy white blouses, the boys in picturesque gray-and-green Tyrolean hunting suits.

In addition to their folk songs of middle Europe, the Trapps will offer their skill at yodeling, that form of musical language without words which has been handed down by Tyroleans for generations, but which is fast becoming a lost art.

Plans for the year were considered at a meeting Tuesday night after which a minstrel show was given under the direction of Lecturer Daniel Henchey.

Parents Find Ways To Interest Children

Following talks by several speakers, those who attended the monthly meeting of the Pre-School Parent-Teacher Association agreed that by dabbling in finger-painting, and clay modeling, splashing water paint and playing with cutouts parents gain experience for themselves and some of the satisfaction to be obtained by creating things.

And consequently they will realize the importance of helping their children to use these mediums to express themselves and help them to create an outlet for their emotions as a means of gaining poise and confidence in themselves.

The speakers were Mrs. Robert Cutler, Mrs. Angelo Amatulli, finger painting; Mrs. Joseph Saltzman, cutting and pasting; Mrs. Carson, P. Vorbeck, clay modeling; Mrs. Clinton Metz, art appreciation; Mrs. James Pratt, budgeting and proper selections of toys, and Mrs. Henry L. Fuchs, books for the pre-school child and parent.

H.N.S. PLANS INSTALLATION
Jules Alber, president, and his staff are to be installed at the monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society of Our Holy Redeemer R.C. Church Monday night in the school hall. The Rev. John J. Madden, moderator of the society, is to be the installing officer.

Diane Jordan Among Those Listed In 'Who's Who In Baton Twirling'

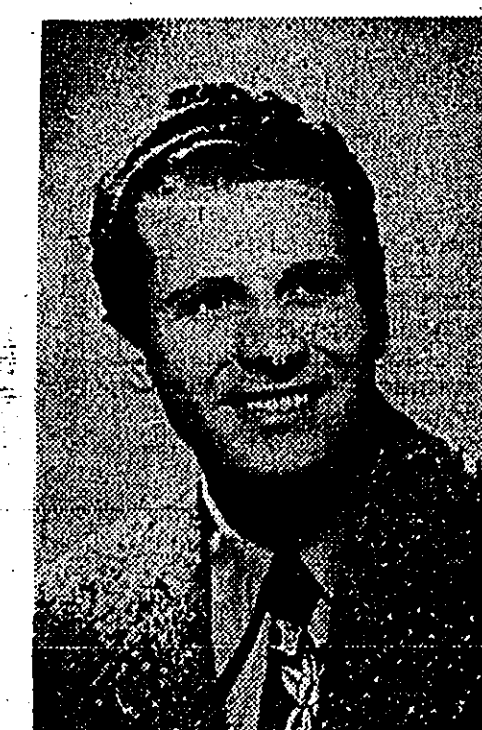

Diane Jordan, drum majorette of the Freeport High School Marching Band, is among those listed in "Who's Who In Baton Twirling," for 1950, a volume of 164 pages.

Diane was selected by officials of the National Baton Twirling Association, headquarters in Jacksonville, Wis., and editors of the Nationally circulated Drum Major magazine as one of the 301 finer baton twirling exponents now residing in the United States.

Bound in a heavy, gold trimmed maroon cover, the publication will be distributed to leading public and school libraries in each state by mid-January. One hundred forty-four pages of reading material and twenty pages of pictures comprise much of the book's contents as well as the history and evolution of baton twirling. The book reveals that there are more than 175,000 known baton twirlers living in the United States. Being selected as one of the 301 finer performers from such a large field is considered a highly coveted honor.

Diane, who started twirling in 1943, will win added recognition next month when the Drum Major magazine will reveal facts concerning her selection of inclusion in the book.

F. H. S. Marksmen Beat Hempstead, Champions For 3 Years, 901-897

The Freeport High School marksmen served notice they are the team to beat for the 1950 championship by defeating Hempstead, champions for three seasons, by the narrow margin of four points, 901 to 897 on the loser's own range Thursday afternoon.

Hempstead took the prone half of the match, 493 to 486, but the Red Devils proved superior at off-hand shooting, 415 to 404.

David Winter had a perfect score at prone, as did John Frappied of Hempstead. Winter added an 87 off-hand, only one point less than Bob Martorana who led in this respect.

Freeport's accomplishment can be appreciated when it is realized that not only did Hempstead win the South Shore Athletic League Championship in 1947, 1948 and 1949, but prior to Thursday had lost only five matches to three schools, Champlain, Central (Valley Stream) and Garden City, out of 97 since 1943.

The Freeport J.V. team was not quite so successful as it lost to Hempstead, 894 to 768. John Hesse with 166 was high scorer for the losers and Bryant Hamlet for the victors with 181.

A.A.A. Urges State Adopt Permanent License Plates

The New York State Automobile Association this week urged the use of permanent license plates, beginning in 1951, as a revenue-saving measure and as a convenience to the state's more than 3,500,000 motor-vehicle owners.

"The system has been adopted by five states—Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Missouri and Wisconsin—and from all reports their experiences with it are uniformly good," J. R. Crossley, vice-president of the Automobile Club of New York said. He announced the auto club would redouble its efforts in coming weeks to procure legislation in Albany so that the system can be initiated in the state next year. A bill incorporating this plan is expected to be introduced shortly by Senator Seymour Halpern, chairman of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicle Problems. The plan would require that the State issue two plates which would be attached to the car permanently. Metal tabs would then be distributed yearly to be affixed to the permanent plates. Last year, a similar system was used when metal 1949 tabs were attached to the previous year's license plates.

Freeport Is Well Represented At Smith College Club Meeting

Freeport was well represented at an open meeting of the Smith College Club of Long Island held in St. Mary's School, Garden City. Mrs. Charles D. Baker, jr., introduced John Roy Carlson, who spoke on "Under Cover in Europe," while others present were Mrs. Stanley W. Pierce, vice-president of the club; George P. McGrath, a director of the Alumnae Association; Mrs. Charles J. Baldwin and Mrs. Russell E. Hotelling.

"The low morale and feelings of hostility found among peoples of Europe today are all the ailments of a mispent youth," said Mr. Carlson. "In Europe you see so much organized hate that you feel discouraged." Mr. Carlson said, "Fascist elements are ready to break out everywhere, and free enterprise is gone and finished. There are no town halls or public discussions; you continually hear the voice of the downtrodden. We are the little people. It is therefore not surprising that I met people from Ireland to Arabia, begging to come to America."

"Europe is looking to some kind of socialism, and we should be directing these countries to the enlightened type of socialism that exists in Sweden, before faith is lost in the west. We must try to understand the needs of people, if we are to help them. If we cannot understand our own belief in the South here, how can we interpret Europe?"

"In Stockholm, there are no slums, old homes are beautiful and paintings and sculptures are seen everywhere sponsored by the government. The golden rule is practiced on a mass scale in Sweden, where selfishness is the norm. All gangster films that glorify crime or subjects that are anti-social in nature are excluded from the theatres."

"Czechoslovakia was very much like Sweden when I visited that country in 1947, but in 1949 it was a disappointing picture. A republic, born in 1919 after centuries of oppression under German Hapsburg rule, Czechoslovakia's hatred for the Germans is deeply rooted. After the last war, this hatred grew, along with a loss of faith in the west. The powerful communist party then became established, organized a fifth column, and went into effect against the wishes of the people."

"In America, however, I cannot understand why we should have the communist fear complex. We won the war of 1812 against the powerful naval forces of England; and we know what has happened to people like the Kaiser, Tojo, Hitler, and Mussolini. Now I would like Stalin to send some real honest communists to America to see its beauty and strength and her so-called inferior peoples. In space production, free expression, I would like Stalin to see the real strength in this country."

"America is the real land of hope," Mr. Carlson continued, "and let us keep our faith in democracy, our belief in the common sense of the American people. Let us not be afraid of change; for all change does not lead to communism or revolution. The simple processes of life itself are possible only through change."

Israel, as Mr. Carlson found it, is a miraculous state, patterned after British and Swedish socialism, introducing benefits to a backward Arab world.

"If we are to establish democracy," Mr. Carlson concluded, "we

Picking on Freeport Again

Someone is always picking on Freeport. First the picking was done by subversive elements and now it is the Nassau County Woman's Forum which sends a committee of 15 of its human relations workshop to "do" Bennington Park and after a cursory examination to proclaim living conditions as "atrocious."

We do not wish to impugn the motives behind the visit to the Park, but we do think the wrong methods were used. Outside organizations are not familiar with what the village authorities are doing to rectify conditions in a given area. Consequently, such inspections should be made without the blare of trumpets and the findings revealed to the Board so that an understanding can be reached and any information given to the public thereafter will be authentic and reliable.

It so happens that the Village Fathers realize what should be done and have authority under the ordinances to rectify them. This permits them to order buildings vacated until necessary repairs and installations have been made. However, it has been found that if these ordinances were enforced, it might be necessary to turn numerous families into the street with no where to go for a home. It is this dilemma that has faced the Board and caused it to hesitate in going the limit. The Women from the Forum probably did not know of this fact.

And furthermore it seems to us it would be unwise to project a housing development as all of Bennington Park is rapidly being industrialized. Not only would a housing project arrest the trend of this development, but eventually the residence area seems destined to be so greatly reduced that there would not be enough families to make such a project profitable.

So we think the Village Fathers should be permitted to solve their own problems in the order of their importance without outsiders coming into town to force one issue to the front.

REFLECTIONS

By Edmund R. Wernicke

Evanesence

Little Man,
On a star for a day,
Born for a fleeting sun,
You've time for a laugh,
A tear or two,
A breath
Till day is done.
You've time for a dream—
And dreams enough
To last eternity.
You've time to succeed;
And, in succeeding,
Court futility:
Because you will grow old
In searching
For a vanished youth,
Grow cynical and sightless
In your quest
Uncovering the truth.
But there will be truth
Through the merest glimpse
Is all that you behold;
And there will be youth—
To take your place—
While you are growing old;
But the things that,
Looking back, would prove
To be the greater part
You will not find.
For you won't think
To look within your heart.
You're a little Man,
And a little day.
Is all you have at best;
Live what have you
While you may,
Nor waste it in the quest
For treasures that
Should you succeed
Soothe not your discontent,
And you are sure
Of only that
Your little day is spent.

The Leader Bookshelf

By MRS. ELIZABETH F. KELLY

Librarian, Freeport Memorial Library

"Early Candlelight" an historical romance by Mrs. Maud Lovelace, Long Island author, known for her Betsy-Tacy books for children and teenagers, was published in 1929, by the University of Minnesota Press. During the war, due to the paper shortages, the book went out of print. Now, twenty years later, (1949) "Early Candlelight" has been reissued, a result of persistent demand from readers who had enjoyed the story of pioneer life in Minnesota.

Della DuGay was only twelve when the tale began, living with her picturesque father and brothers who were French Canadian Voyageurs. The "du" DuGays they were called, by their friends and neighbors, and each in the family was proud of being a part of such a family, and especially of Tess, Deedee's mother who "cooked stew for the soldiers" and who answered the summons to the Army Post "in great haste and excitement" whenever a baby was expected.

Jasper Page was twenty-three when he arrived at Fort Snelling for the purpose of trading in fur. He built his stone house on the island in the midst of the St. Peters just below the fort, and from that time on, his influence was felt among the Indians as well as those within the garrison.

Deedee's great desire to see the inside of M'sieu Page's house, on fulfillment, grew into something beyond mere curiosity of a place, and this interest in M'sieu Page, himself, is traced throughout the story, with sincerity and "real delicacy of feeling." Along with the adventures and romantic episodes, appear tragedies which have always been, in one form or another, a part of real living, perhaps, especially so during the pioneer days. Narcisse, Deedee's older half brother, very much her favorite, felt a tumultuous unrest which led him and his family into grievous situations. In making a final decision as to his way of life, Narcisse may have been, in gaining that happiness for which she had hoped.

Young people, not only those living in Minnesota, but also throughout the United States, will be delighted with this absorbing tale of the old trading posts along the Minnesota and the Mississippi Rivers and of the settlements which later became the cities, Saint Paul and Minneapolis.

To be called a "Parasite" must be unpleasant, especially if it is done by your host where you have been, for some time, accustomed to spend your week end.

This is the way in which Daphne du Maurier opens her new book "Parasites." Sir Charles Wyndham includes his wife, Maria Delaney, in his statement: "That's what you are, the three of you, Parasites!" Celia was the only child of both Delaneys. Maria was Pappy's daughter by a Viennese actress. Niall was Maria's son. The children had grown up together, living first one place, then another, traveling as is done by families earning their living on the stage.

Maria had inherited her Mother's talent as an actress. Niall was a musician whose music was sung by people in all walks of life of that time. Celia just did all the domestic jobs, and after the death of her Mother, gradually took care of her father.

There was a strange bond between Maria and Niall. Somehow Maria always did better when Niall was backing her, she was miserably if she were not in contact with him. That disturbed Charles, her husband, when he realized it after years of married life.

In back-drawings, Daphne du Maurier gives us the life of this family, the development of these children. We had hoped for as excellent a book as Rebecca.

Without or with offense to friends or foes,

LEADER'S DIGEST . . . With Asst. D. MOXIE RIGBY prosecuting and Atty. PAUL KELLY as defendant, stands the Freeport gas station killing now being heard in Minerva; stands out as practiced example of American Democracy. (Both barristers are personally fully acquainted with the Park and its problems.) . . . Does the lack of court action mean that peace might be declared between parties in that big local real estate deal? (Let's hope so because a settlement would mean start of Freeport's biggest forward project which everyone favors.)

Why didn't that Freeport (well known nin rectangular torsephorean circles) plug Freeport when he was on TV recently? . . . Freeport Banker N. SARGENT NIXON has an excellent plan on that village subject of current prime importance (but we can't break a confidence because many locals aren't farsighted enough yet).

FREEPORTING THE NEWS . . . Did EVERETT FURMAN (Clerk of Surrogate Court) purposely forget his luggage when he left for Florida, so that ATTY. JULIUS BIRGENTHAL would have an excuse to go down?

CONGRESSMAN LEONARD HALL faithful to his constituents by leading fight for Jones Inlet project. (If the boys in Washington would listen to Mayor Dossee's full story there wouldn't be any doubt of its importance.) . . . Movie marketer TRUDY MARSHALL is sister in their old stand? . . . Believe it or not, but Brooklyn's biggest business now is well-digging. . . . old-timers reaping fortunes with equipment considered museum pieces.

EDITOR'S NOTES . . . Nod of approval to STANLEY MARKS (owner of I.S.O. Main St.'s L.I. Army-Navy store) for his generous gesture in outfitting that young chap plagued with tough luck, with the water-tight gear he needed to get a job. (This was supposed to be on the G.T. but our informer found out.) . . . JACK GREEN'S daughter Carol (Hofstra) and her tall and handsome fiancé, IRA KAPLAN, (N.Y.U.) make a lovely couple. . . . Former flitc ace LOU PRIMAVERA now with the Ernie Lamb radio-television set-up on Grove st. . . . Overboard! Freeport expand north to Southern State pky. and to absorb part of Roosevelt? . . . Was a pleasant sight to see the joy when that family received the much-needed articles from Mrs. J. M. of So. Ocean ave. (She begged no publicity.)

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE . . . Packed representative attendance at C. of C. open house held at Guy Lombardo's last Tuesday. BILL Maxwell's grand lunch (gratis) to help launch the organization in 1950 well appreciated. DAVE LEVY, Dean of the Main Stem, handed the toastmaster spot as only a Levy can, while the million-dollar personality of his wife beamed with pride. (More men with his sincere interest in the welfare of Freeport are needed.) . . . Membership applications starting to roll in which promise to make this a strong and active organization. (Applicants blanks may be obtained by writing Mrs. Ramsey, FREEPORT 8-1920 or writing to Chamber of Commerce, Freeport.)

MAKING THE ROUNDS . . . G. Lombardo's PAT RUTT starts the pleasant evening with a million dollar smile as she takes your coat. . . . Master mixologists Eddie La Bello and Ernie Jordan entertain at the bar while Mike furnishes nostalgic requests on the accordion and piano. (His rendition of "I Wait To Go Home With You" leaves you humming.) Packed houses this week. Favorite waiter JOHN KAPLAN introduced his proteges, SUE CAMPISI and DALISAY J. ALDABA of Manila, (Star of Madame Butterfly), who joined the merriment by singing. . . . Tops in story tellers: DR. BERNARD WEINBERG (DDS). He and his Missus (former Tena Samet) and the MILTON (Royal Appliances) FRELIONS gave your reporter many pleasant moments in the Trophy Room.

DURYEA ORCHID CREATION . . . The award of this weekly lovely floral tribute is made to women in our community as a token of public appreciation. This week's recipient is noted for being one of Freeport's most pleasant sales persons. During the Christmas holidays when everyone's nerves were on edge, she maintained her congenial nature, and donated many hours to visit an elderly invalid, help her with her gift list and do all the shopping, wrapping and mailing. True to the name she bears; she is a gem. It is a pleasure to award the DURYEA ORCHID CORSAGE to MISS RUBY MERRITT of 425 Archer st. for her pleasant attitude while being associated with Schultz Toy Shop on Sunrise Highway.

OFF THE CUFF . . . Freeport's new industry, Lincoln Venetian Blind Co., 30 E. Merrick rd., now employing twenty people under the capable management of MILTON BECKER. . . . Side note to manufacturers: Any concern capable of making wooden boxes and desirous of a lead to a good contract should contact SARGE NIXON at the Freeport Bank for details. . . . One well-known restaurant owner anxious to make good for overcoat lost by patron in his establishment. (Police checking laundry marks of the garment left behind for clues.)

This column's entry in any beauty contest, MARTHA SCHULTZ, looked dazzling at Guy L's. . . . REGIS SCHULTZ celebrating 12 years as top Shell dealer. . . . WGBB top exec HARRY OARMAN planning Florida journey. . . . Ditto HENRY SCHILLING. . . . The JOHNNY SCHULTZ welcomed their number 3, Nancy Louise, at Mercy Hospital. . . . Top even, annual ball, Feb. 24 at MITCHELL FIELD with big brass and politicians as guests.

SIDE-LITES . . . Student ADRIENNE GARFINKLE is University of Miami's best Press Agent according to listeners up in these parts. . . . Six-footer JOHNNY (Quinn) RUETH stopped the two drums annoying the female LIRR early A.M. arrival on Railroad ave. (Lucky they took a powder without giving him an argument. He's former amateur boxing star.) . . . The Main Stem welcoming BEN BERN (Webber's) back to COSCARELLI realty after 10 years of municipal service to join her hubby in Manila. . . . DAVE SHAPIRO offering facilities of his SHORE CREST HOTEL for Chamber of Commerce meetings. (More to urge discontinuance of parking meters after six P.M. on their agenda.) . . . Sign on the corner of So. Ocean and Sunrise hanging dangerously after recent windstorm. (Check before some pedestrian gets speared.) . . . JOHN PETERSON CO. heating the weather with all out program on Parking Field No. 4 construction. (That's why he's tops in this line.)

Esso Servicenter Gas Sales Pile Up Aiding Freeport's March of Dimes

As the daily sales of gasoline are recorded with 10 percent of the gross receipts going to drive, at the Esso Servicenter, South Grove st., indications are that the hopes of Rubie Hankin, the manager, that he will be able to turn over $500 to the fund in two weeks will be realized.

The four prizes were officially sealed with much ceremony Saturday morning. Trustee Leonard D. B. Smith, as acting Mayor, read the figures on the pumps: as follows: $8,153.63, $9,188.50, $3,945, and $3,726.12. At the close of business on Saturday night, Jan. 28, these figures will be subtracted from the new totals, the four amounts added up, and 10 percent of the difference donated to the Freeport March of Dimes.

Trustee Smith complimented Mr. Hankin on his fine gesture in helping the campaign to fight infantile paralysis. Trustee Carl Viethack also congratulated Mr. Hankin saying his act "should be an inspiration to all of us to try to give all we can to this drive in Freeport."

The proceedings were broadcast over Station WGBB and among those interviewed were Mrs. Elmore L. Keener, chairman for Freeport; John F. DeLorme, who is assisting in the drive; Martin H. Weyrauch, Village Counsel, and local officials of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. These included District Manager, O. L. Jones; Thomas Watkins, his assistant; Edward Sheehan, maintenance superintendent, and Charles Brink, sales manager.

A record of the gasoline sales from day to day is being indicated on a thermometer at the center. The first customer to drive up and buy gasoline after the pumps had been sealed was Forrest McVean, of Baldwin.

Freeport residents soon will see at the Grove Theatre a 10-minute educational "movie" short dramatizing the story of the Disabled American Veterans.

The film, titled "How Much Do You Owe?" stars James Stewart, motion picture actor, and Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan and Corregidor.

The story was written by Col. Owen Crump, well known Hollywood writer and producer and was directed by Ralph Staub, able Columbia Pictures director.

Step by step, through the thread of the plot of the short, is the courageous story of the problem facing the disabled veteran. A realistic presentation is made of the problems that every community faces and the manner in which the DAV serves.

Here Is Another Time The Anti-Trust Lawyers Were Wrong!

Ever since the anti-trust lawyers filed their suit to put A&P out of business, they have been making, in the newspapers and over the radio, various "allegations" about how they think this company does business.

Please remember that "allegations" are charges that have not been proved.

In this case they will be disproved.

There have been times in the past when the anti-trust lawyers made very damaging "allegations" about this company that the courts eventually decided were utterly without foundation.

In our last advertisement we told you about the time the anti-trust lawyers charged that A&P, two other food chains and two labor unions conspired to fix the price of bread in Washington, D. C.

And yet, when this case came to trial, it was revealed that the defendants were actually selling bread cheaper than most other stores in Washington, and there was absolutely no evidence that they had ever engaged in any such "alleged" conspiracy.

That was the time Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

It was the time he said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"If you were to show this record to any experienced trial lawyer in the world, he would tell you that there was not any evidence at all."

"Honestly, I have never in my over forty years' experience seen tried a case that was as absolutely devoid of evidence as this. That is the honest truth. I have never seen one like it."

But this was not the only time that the anti-trust lawyers made such serious "allegations" against A&P which were false. Again, and still again, they brought cases against A&P and suffered defeat.

As we have said, we think you are entitled to know about these other cases. And now, we are going to tell you about the second time the anti-trust lawyers were wrong.

The North Carolina Potato Case

In December, 1941, the anti-trust lawyers brought a criminal suit in Wilson, North Carolina.

They charged that A&P's fresh fruit and vegetable buying subsidiary, and other good American citizens, had conspired to fix and depress prices paid farmers for potatoes in North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland.

Can anyone imagine any charge calculated to be more damaging to a retail grocery business that must rely on farmers, day after day, for the food we distribute to our customers?

In this case the anti-trust lawyers gave a story to the newspapers, telling millions of farmers that we were the kind of people who would force their prices down, deprive them of a decent income, and lower their families' living standard.

These charges were false.

They made these charges despite the fact that it has always been A&P's policy to pay our farm suppliers fair market prices for all produce; to aid agriculture through better distribution of its products; to narrow the spread between farm and retail prices; and to help farmers build better markets for their products.

That is why many thousands of farmers all over the country are now coming to our support.

When the case finally came to trial, the anti-trust lawyers put on as their first witness a potato expert of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This expert, who was the anti-trust lawyers' own witness, testified that contrary to the anti-trust lawyers' "allegations," the defendants made every effort to help the Department of Agriculture in its efforts to aid the potato farmer in better marketing of his products and in getting a better price for his products.

When the anti-trust lawyers had put in their evidence and had argued their case Federal Judge C. C. Wyche directed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

Judge Wyche said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"I have studied this case from the very outset. In my opinion there is no testimony produced from which it can reasonably be inferred that the defendants entered into a combination to depress or lower the price of potatoes."

"I might say that I never tried a case in my life where a greater effort, more work, more investigation had been done, combing almost with a fine-tooth comb to gather evidence, as was done in this case."

"But, as was said a long time ago, you can't make brick without straw, and you can't make a case without facts."

So, here was a case in which the anti-trust lawyers made seriously damaging charges against A&P in which the Judge decided that there were no facts to support those charges.

That is why we say the anti-trust lawyers can be wrong and have been wrong.

That is why we say that they are wrong again, just as they were wrong in the Washington bread case and the North Carolina potato case.

We are going to show the American people that the suit to destroy A&P is really a suit against efficiency and against real competition.

The real question involved in this suit is whether businessmen are going to be encouraged to do a better and more efficient job; or whether we are going to let the anti-trust lawyers in Washington blow the whistle on anybody who gets big by giving the people more for their money.

No one can make us believe that it is a crime to try to sell the best quality food at the lowest possible price.

'Socialism is Coming' Minister Tells Rotary

Rev. Arthur J. Pennell Points to Regulation As Step in Direction

The United States is definitely headed toward socialism, the Rev. Arthur J. Pennell, retired Methodist minister, declared at the weekly supper of the Rotary Club Thursday night in the Elks clubhouse.

The Rev. Mr. Pennell cited three steps on the route to socialism—Organization, regulation and confiscation, in a talk on "Is Socialism Coming?"

He showed clearly how things in this country that were regarded as being considered from enterprise years ago, were now being "regulated." He cited rent control as a specific example. "Then," he continued, "there is the labor situation. The Federal Government is telling the employer how much he shall pay those who work for him. Regulating wages." "And," he added, "labor is saying it wants more."

"Years ago," Mr. Pennell conceded, "labor was under the heel of industry, but now things have changed. Labor is in control. And the President is afraid to invoke the law that would rectify things. He doesn't dare impose the Taft-Hartley law in an emergency for fear he will lose labor's vote."

The minister said he thought that if one looked forward 25 to 50 years he would see some changes, but that the present "socialism is coming." However, he expressed the hope that no matter what changes take place, the great ideals of the right of every man to enjoy the fruits of his own labor and to think, worship and vote "as he pleases will never be abridged."

President Ray Clements, introduced the speaker.

Minutes of Legislature 1891

Representative government and labor freedom are also depicted in documents in the first car. A case in this car presents the minutes of the first legislative council and assembly elected by the people, a meeting of the New York Colonial Legislature, April 9, 1691.

The documents on labor range from the Duke's Laws of 1665, giving legal protection to servants and laborers, to the Anti-Discrimination Law of 1945.

Liberty under law is the title of the second car of the train. The subject is subdivided into exhibits on personal liberty, suffrage and property rights, military security and the Federal Constitution.

Personal liberty was instituted in New York with the abolition of Indian slavery in 1679 by order of the New York Executive Council and extended universally in the state by a law passed in 1799, providing that every child born of a slave after July 4th of that year would be free.

This section also contains Lincoln's original manuscript of the preliminary proclamation providing for freedom of slaves if the seceding states did not return to the union within 100 days after Sept. 22, 1862.

Documents on Education

The Train of Self-Development is the title of the third exhibit car. It's theme is illustrated by documents on mobility permitted to persons and relating to transportation, education, science and state services.

The Train's exhibits demonstrate that freedom is every field was obtained for communities and individuals only by courageous action. They stimulate interest in the meaning of freedom and the guarantees of freedom.

Book Review Club Topic 'Books Into Musicals'

Members of the Freeport Book Review Club met for an informal discussion of "Books Into Musicals" Monday night.

Miss Grosbeck, a Freeport High School English teacher, gave an interesting resume of books and plays which have been made into musicals. She threw out several controversial questions such as whether the revival of plays showed a decadence in creative writing for the American theatre and whether plays panned by the critics were always bad and visa versa.

Mrs. Carl W. Sutermeister, the president, gave a brief but excellent criticism of "Lost in the Stars."

It was a most relaxing and friendly discussion and the group agreed to ask by Mr. Gilbert Fletcher, program chairman, that it would make for interesting programs in the future to alternate between formal and informal meetings, such as this one.

Those participating in the discussion answered questions from the audience. The importance of the teacher knowing the home background of the child was stressed and it was pointed out that if the teacher and parent have an opportunity to meet early in the school year, before problems arise, many problems will be avoided and those arising can usually be settled to the benefit of the child, by a conference with the teacher.

Mrs. Fred Feuerbach, president, conducted the business meeting and Mrs. Dan Senseney, program chairman introduced the speakers.
